Small Step for a Green Future: Bigoli Fresh Artisan Pasta

A local and statewide favorite for fresh artisan pasta, Bigoli Fresh Pasta located at 426 Orange Avenue in Sand City, is making strides toward becoming a greener business. Bigoli is actively participating in GreenWaste's three-stream collection program: trash, recycling, and organics. While it may not seem significant, having an organics container makes a substantial difference for small businesses. In California alone, 6 million tons of food waste end up in landfills. Bigoli is taking initiative to reduce that amount by pursuing Green Business certification. The owner of Bigoli Michele Cremonese remarks, "It feels good to be part of a movement. These small steps we are taking to reduce food waste going into our landfills benefit us all and the Earth."

The impact of small businesses is sizable; 90% of California companies employ 20 workers or fewer, exerting a considerable environmental influence collectively. Sand City residents, you can play a role in this by supporting local businesses that prioritize sustainability.

No Plastic Bags in Recycling or Organics

RECYCLING:

Reduce waste and recycle without bagging in plastic; place recyclable items straight into your recycling container loose, dry, and empty. Why? Plastic bags are wasteful and can jam up the sorting machinery at the Recycling Center.

ORGANICS:

Keep food scraps and plant trimmings loose. Only BPI-certified compostable bags are permitted in your organics collection containers. Why? Organics are turned into compost and put back into the soil.

Feed the Soil with Keith Day's Compost!

Looking to enhance your landscaping? Introducing Keith Day's Landscaping Supply, your go-to source for premium compost and forest mulch! Their nutrient-rich compost and all-natural forest mulch are perfect for sprucing up your outdoor spaces and are available now for purchase.

Compost is crafted from organics collected in our community, including spent mushroom substrate, lawn clippings, garden trimmings, wine grape harvest, and food waste; guaranteed to enrich your soil and promote healthy plant growth. Forest mulch sourced from local trees adds a touch of natural beauty to your surroundings.
